WORLD AIDS DAY (01.12.2021)

In observance of World Aids Day, we organised a sizable rally that included the institution's principal, the local medical officer, other staff members, and 94 students. The rally was held near the RTC bus stop. According to the theory, wealth is indicated by good health. If we are in poor health despite having millions of dollars in the bank, we are wasting our money. Like HIV, AIDS is a widespread illness with no known cure. The only form of treatment is prevention.

WORLD WILD LIFE CONSERVATION DAY (04.12.2021)

World Wildlife Conservation Day was jointly hosted by the college's eco club and zoology department on April 12, 2021. The wildlife conservation day, according to principal Dr. S L B Sankar Sarma, is being observed as a crucial step toward preserving and safeguarding the dwindling numbers of wildlife species worldwide. Wildlife Conservation Day, which is observed annually on December 4th, aims to raise awareness of the need to protect and preserve the natural world and all of its inhabitants, according to Zoology HOD Sri S. Srinivas. The event also works to support the Endangered Species Act and put an end to wildlife crime. Wildlife crimes include animal smuggling and illegal poaching. It also involves organised crime groups moving a specific animal product for financial gain. Examples include elephant tusks and rhinoceros horns. Wildlife crime damages the ecosystem because it makes animals vulnerable to extinction or endangered. Can you picture yourself residing in a world without amazing creatures like rhinos, elephants, tigers, turtles, gorillas, etc.? It is entirely possible if wildlife crime persists. This is why the goal of wildlife conservation day is to eradicate wildlife crime. Wildlife is crucial to maintaining environmental harmony. The occasion serves as a timely reminder of the need to intensify the fight against wildlife crime. Chemistry HOD Sri Subramanyasastry, Statistics HOD Dr. Varaprasad, and other staff members and students actively participated and offered their suggestions on how to conserve wildlife.
