REPORT ON E-GOVERNANCE

Electronic governance, or e-governance, is the use of information and communication technology (ICT) to carry out communication transactions, deliver services, and integrate different stand-alone systems between the administration and other important college stakeholders, such as students, faculty, staff, and alumni. The way that administration is done in the educational sector has changed as a result of e-government. It is simple, well-organized, and error-free to complete the process using the data and procedures of an educational institution. The system will be more user-friendly, time- and money-efficient as a result of this. In all facets of education, it aids in increasing transparency, disseminating information quickly, enhancing administrative effectiveness, and performing public service. The following services were successfully implemented this year at the Sri VS Sivalingam Chettiar Government Degree College in Sullurpet.

Administration

Sri VS Sivalingam Chettiar Government Degree College in Sullurpet uses enterprise resource planning (ERP), a type of business process management software, to organise and automate all of the tasks related to academic, administrative, and other tasks in the college. M/S Sri Manasa Solutions, Tenali, Andhra Pradesh, provides the services. All the communications regarding budget requirements, sanction of new courses, staff-related issues like postings, transfers, deputations, sanction of additional increments, ratification of services, long leaves, retirement benefits etc., and student-related communications and overall monitoring such as conduct of induction programme, CIE, skill based courses, organization of placements and trainings, internships are all communicated to the commissioner of college education, the highest authority of the college through e-office only, otherwise, the office does not examine the issues. The facial recognition system (FRS) mobile application with Geographical Information System tagging has been introduced by the Andhra Pradesh government to mark the daily attendance of the staff and students. E-Map and I-Map were introduced by CCE to track internships, map students' mentors and employers, and pay tuition and other fees to the college.

Finance and Accounts

Due to government regulations and as a fundamental element of e-governance, all financial transactions now take place without the use of cash. Employee salaries, arrears, and other benefits are created using the comprehensive financial management system (CFMS) of the portal. The government of Andhra Pradesh also directly distributes scholarships (JVD) to students' mothers' bank accounts in order to maintain systemic transparency and financial accountability. Students pay their tuition and other fees using a special app called E-Map, and all purchases are made without using cash.

Student Admission and Support

The Andhra Pradesh government has instituted online admissions for all of the state's degree-granting institutions. In accordance with the current laws and regulations, the Andhra Pradesh State Council of Higher Education has been offering online degree admissions through the Online Admissions Module for Degree Colleges (OAMDC) portal for the last four academic years. The OAMDC keeps track of every step of the process, including registration, certificate verification, web options, allocation letters, admissions configuration, three phases of admissions, sliding in the second and final phases, etc.

Examination

The affiliating university runs all types of exams through a fully automated system. Soon after the admissions process is complete, the university gathers information about the newly admitted students from all affiliated colleges, collects exam fees, prepares for exams, generates hall tickets, posts internal and practical marks, announces results, and generates transcripts, provisional certificates, and other certificates exclusively in an online format.

Policy Document on E-governance

Electronic governance, also known as e-governance, is the use of information and communication technology (ICT) to deliver services, exchange information, carry out communication transactions, and integrate various stand-alone systems between the administration and other key college stakeholders, including students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

The primary objectives of Sri V.S. Sivalingam Chettiar Government Degree College's e-governance policy are operational efficiency, promoting transparency and accountability in transactions, fostering effective stakeholder communication, encouraging user teamwork and collaboration, facilitating information access, adhering to the rules and regulations of governmental nodal agencies, and increasing institutional visibility to the outside world.

The elements of e-governance include general administration, submitting concerns to the commissioner of collegiate education, the admission process for students, staff transfers, keeping track of various records, finances, such as staff salaries, arrears, student scholarships, paying tuition fees, staff and student attendance, exam-related activities, awarding various certificates to the students, library activities, etc.

To fully utilize the college's e-governance system's capabilities, it is anticipated that all stakeholders will utilize it to the fullest extent possible
